

Service/ Program	 Caregiving Services	 Home Palliative Medical Care	 Palliative Respite Care
Who Comes?	A caregiver, who has been trained by Hospice of Huntington to provide services to seriously ill patients. This worker is backed by a trusted agency that provides back-up care if something happens and the scheduled worker cannot come. If a licensed care worker is needed, Certified Nurse Assistants are available.	Our Palliative Provider comes to your home as an extension of your primary care physician to assist with medication adjustments, discuss your illness and symptoms and help improve your quality of life at home. This is like the doctor's office coming to you instead of you having to go to the doctor. The Palliative Provider is specially trained to care for patients in the palliative stage of an illness and can help improve the quality of life for you and provide helpful information and support for your caregivers. A patient using home palliative services can still receive home health services, chemotherapy and other treatments.	Patients currently enrolled in Tri-State LifeCare's Home Palliative Medical Program can receive inpatient respite care and services at the EDJHH if they are determined to be medically eligible by a Tri-State LifeCare Provider.
What Do You Get?	Caregivers can provide companion services such as sitting, light housekeeping, transportation and socialization. Personal care workers can also provide personal care services such as bathing and grooming.	Extended time in your home to talk with a provider about your condition and family needs. This allows the opportunity to ask questions and get information/resources you may not have time for during an office visit. This service also helps prevent unnecessary trips to the hospital. We provide physical assessments, medication management, lab work, recommendations for home medical equipment, dietary consult, care coordination and more. Important information is shared with your physician so he/she can manage your care in the best possible way.	The patient receives 24-hour-a-day care for up to one week.
Who Pays for It?	Tri-State Life Care Caregiving Services are paid for by the client, Power of Attorney or with a long-term care insurance policy. Tri-State LifeCare Caregiving Services are not covered by Medicare and Medicaid. A payment deposit, plus a free care assessment, is required in advance of service.	Your health insurance pays for it just like they would if you were going to the doctor's office. Co-pays apply. Most co-pays range from $0-$30 per visit. The number of visits is determined by you and your provider.	This is a private pay service. For an anticipated length of stay one week or less, a one-week advanced payment is due at time of admission to the EDJHH. If the anticipated stay is longer than two weeks, arrangements for short-term residency will apply. Contact our office for current rates.
